Plant Finds Block Demand Good

Sikeston's newest industry, the Hedrick Concrete Products Corporation, on Roth street, south of Murray Lane, is nearing its first year of operation.

This week it passed the first million mark in production of concrete blocks. The company employs 12. It moved here from Delta.

There are stacks of finished blocks on the grounds. They are not surplus but are being cured for 30 days.

W. N. Hedrick, president, says that it took a few months after the Nov. opening day to get in to high gear. Since the plant has operated continuously. The factory produces 6,000 blocks per day.

"We're running at break-neck speed," said Hedrick "but our orders keep piling in."

Ovens, containing thousands of blocks, give a heat treatment for one day. The blocks then go to the storage lot to cure.

The company is broadening its product line by adding many decorative types of blocks. They will begin supplying customers with added concrete items such as split stone, copings, window sills, bumper blocks, overhead door and window lintels, as well as splash blocks for grave markers.

J. D. Smith is foreman.

The company sells to building contractors and their suppliers in a 100-mile radius of Sikeston.

Directors are Hedrick, Earl Jarvis, Robert Matthews, David Blanton and Lowell Webb. They and 60 other persons from Southeast Missouri are stockholders in the company.

Ask Fire Chief Be Ousted

CAIRO, Il. (AP) — Petitions were circulated here today urging the City Council to dismiss Fire Chief Bill Brooks and asking the council to call a public meeting to discuss fire department operations.

It was believed the petitions were being circulated by private citizens and not the eight members of the 13-man department who resigned Thursday. The resignations are effective Sept. 13.

The council met in a special session late Thursday to discuss the situation, but came to no decisions.

The firemen, who picketed the meeting, declined a council request to submit a formal petition seeking a council hearing. The council has told them it would meet again today to consider the petition.

One fireman told a reporter they would not compromise their demands that Brooks be removed from office. The firemen said they would no longer take orders from Brooks because of "intolerable working conditions."

The eight firemen who resigned are Capt. Cecil Keith, Albert A. Pamplin Jr., Artlle Summers, Larry Dowdy, James Pritchert, D arrell Douglas, Raymond Hughes and John D. Sheperd.

Two other firemen, D. E. Smith and Lewis Edwards, were suspended Wednesday for five days for reasons that were not announced. Edwards is president of Local 1516 of the International Firefighters Association.

Firemen, joined by members of Local 773 of the Hodcarriers and Common Laborers Union, picketed Thursday the printing firm operated by Fire Commissioner Herman Hirsch and a motel run by Mayor Tom Beadles.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese troops found heavy stocks of Viet Cong ammunition and about 1,000 uniforms in a wooded area near Saigon churned up Thursday by a saturation bombing of B52 jets, a U.S. spokesman said today.

Guerrilla ground fire downed a troop-carrying U.S. Army helicopter on its way to the bombed area. The spokesman said there were no survivors. The number aboard was withheld for security reasons but such craft can carry from 10 to 12 men.

U.S. Officials Try To Quietly Bury Spy Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials hope the five-year-old Sigapore spy case can finally be put to rest without stirring further Asian animosity toward the United States.

But the hope rests on a shaky foundation.

There are two main reasons for this: Washington's own handling of the incident and determination in some Asian quarters, not all of them Communist, to fan any flame that might burn Uncle Sam's hands.

Those hands, some Asian leaders maintain, have too long been busy in Asian affairs. And the Central Intelligence Agency, which operates generally with a velvet glove, does have a hand in Asia — as the Singapore incident showed the world to Washington's despair.

Curiously perhaps, Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuankew's decision to bring to life what officials hoped was a dead issue is not believed here to have been based on any new complaint against the CIA.

Rather, it is because he is trying to weaken Singapore's ties with the United States and strengthen those his new island nation has with Indonesia, Communist China and Russia that he set out to belittle Washington, according to the general view here.

Five years ago officials feared that if the incident became public it would damage seriously U.S. efforts to build friendly relations with Asian countries not already in the Communist camp.

That fear evidentaly lingers and now that Lee has blown the cover off what had been a highly private affair, officials are trying to hush things up as rapidly as possible.

The CIA has refused all comment on Lee's charges and

Priceless Ruby Recovered

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The priceless DeLong ruby, ransomed from the underworld for $25,000 in cash, will be going back soon to the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

The ruby was found Thursday night in a musty public telephone booth, climaxing weeks of deadends and fruitless tipoffs.

The blood-red 100 carat jewel, one of the largest and most perfect gems in the world, was resting on a ledge at the top of the booth on the heavily traveled Sunshine State Parkway.

It was not wrapped and might have resembled a large crimson marble to someone who thought to look.

Millionaire John D. MacArthur, financier of the ransom, retrieved the ruby through a telephone tipoff from a free lance writer, Francis P. Antel, who simultaneously had a rendezvous with the ruby's holders.

MacArthur, 68, and his party were telephoned at a Palm Beach hotel late Thursday by Antel and given 30 minutes to drive to the parkway's Palm Beach Gardens service area, several miles distant.

As the party pulled up at the designated telephone booth, the telephone was ringing. It was Antel.

He told Bill Federici, New York Daily News reporter who helped engineer the recovery: "Turn around and face the door. Reach up and you'll feel the ruby."

Quickly, the party sped back to town and to a hotel where a jeweler was waiting to be sure the gem was authentic.

The ruby was one of 24 jewels stolen by three Miami Beach boys Oct. 29 in what police called the most sensational jewel theft of the 20th century.

The sky-blue Star of India sapphire, another of those stolen, was recovered with eight other stones in a Miami bus terminal locker in January.

"What we have learned will help us plan the Lyn Baines Johnson Library at the University of Texas," she said in a formal statement at Independence.

With her were William Heath, an attorney at Austin, Tex., who is chairman of the University of Texas regents, and Max Brooks and Roy White, Austin architects.

"We were most impressed with her informed questions and enthusiasm," said Dr. Phillips C. Brooks, director of the Truman Library.

It is a depository of personal and official paper and documents from the Truman career, particularly the White House years. It also is a museum of gifts and mementos designed at Truman's behest to explain the powers and problems of the presidency.

The Eisenhower Library is grouped with a museum housing the trophies of his career and the restoration of his boyhood home in Abilene.

The former president and Mrs. Truman greeted Mrs. Johnson at the Library in Independence. He was guide as they toured for about an hour.

Want to get back alive and healthy from your Labor Day holiday trip?

Then start early and take it easy. Cut your speed a little. Keep your temper. Give way in traffic, rather than be pushy.

Above all, don't drink if you drive.

If enough drivers do this, the National Safety Council will look silly in estimating that as many as 520 persons may die in the holiday traffic.

And the Council urges you to make it look silly. It would love it.

The smart driver meets the extra holiday danger with extra care, courtesy and common sense.

So he has less fuss and more fun--and lives longer.

It's just that simple. Try it and see.

In one brief generation, the American male has traveled in a tight circle--and I mean tight--from the era of the "great unwashed" to the era of the "great unshaved."

The first thing any serious student should learn is that figures and statistics can prove almost anything.

The federal government's cost of living index doesn't mean much. This is because items involved are evaluated on a price basis only.

Despite almost revolutionary changes in automobiles, which soon become standard equipment, there has been no adjustment in the index to show greater value. The index merely records the higher prices charged the consumer for modern cars while ignoring the improvements.

Undoubtedly college graduates earn more than those who don't go to college and those who do but don't finish. The statistics are full of hidden booby traps.

Ivy league schools, such as Harvard, are fond of giving the average annual income of graduates.

The inference is that the school alone is responsible. Many Harvard men leave school to work for wealthy fathers or other rich relatives.

They often have the opportunity to make more from the start and their education is only an incidental factor. Some of them would have had the same opportunity even if they didn't go to college.

There isn't any doubt that a college education makes a good man better but other circumstances prevailing in the marketplace of job opportunities may influence income intially more than the fact that he is a college graduate.

Fortunately it still is possible for a person with ambition and determination to forge ahead even if he doesn't have a college education. It is becoming more difficult for young people without an adequate formal educational background to get started in many fields.

Pull, luck and inside connections still exert a strong influence in some instances. College education is a factor in others. Ability, energy, intelligence, however acquired, motivation, determination, eagerness to learn, willingness to work long hours and dedication are other important factors.

The young person, who has all of these qualifications and has a well heeled, influential father willing to help him get started, is fortunate indeed.

But the world also will hear a lot from those who have the other qualifications, but have no influential relatives or friends to help nudge them forward.

Certainly no able young man, lacking a college education, should be discouraged by phony college education statistics about high average annual incomes of graduates. The professors can't honestly claim all the credit.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE SWEEPS

The second New Hampshire Sweepstakes Race will be run at Rockingham Park on Saturday (Sept. 4).

"EVEN IF THE SWEEPSTAKES only provides $10,000," says a newspaperman who opposes the New Hampshire Sweepstakes, "This state, with its fiscal probelms, will take the $10,000."

The remark epitomizes the granite realism of Hampshiremen. Net proceeds of the annual sweepstakes race are divided among New Hampshire's local school districts--and last year even those towns whose voters had turned down the sale of sweepstakes tickets in the 1964 referendum didn't refuse the money.

The sweepstakes frankly hasn't produced as expected. Last year the lottery grossed over $5.7 million and returned $2,768,000 after expenses and taxes, all allocated to school districts. Checks ranged from $266,000 for Manchester to $135 for Windsor. The proceeds amounted to $24.15 per pupil.

The race itself last year was something of a disappointment, at least for the state tax collectors and the proprietors of Rockingham Park, the state's only thoroughbred track. An expected turnout of 65,000 fans materialized as 17,781.

This year ticket sales are lagging behind last year's. Even though the original plan of two sweeps races a year had just jettisioned, officals expected a gross sale of lottery tickets of $9 million. As of early August the prospect of a $4 million gross appeared more realistic. Sales already were a million dollars off those of 1964.

BIG DADDY

This despite a record tourist season and a longer selling season.

GOV. JOHN W. KING, New Hampshire's first Democratic governor in 40 years, on April 30, 1963 signed a bill giving the Granite State a lottery originally designed to raise $4 million a year to save New Hampshire's schools. Last year's sweeps contribution did represent a hike of more than 50 per cent in the state's support for elementary education.

But it amounted to only about 4.8 per cent of total public school operating costs. And even with the sweepstakes revenue, The Wall Street Journal observes, the state picks up only about 13 per cent of public education costs, about a third of the national average.

At the same time, there is no doubt that Hampshiremen, for whom the tourists and vacationers afford a major cash crop, have devised a method of boosting the harvest. Gov. King, now in his second term, frankly describes the sweeps money as "gravy."

The threat to all this gambling boodle is that neighboring racing states may take the play away from underpopulated New Hampshire by instituting lotteries of their own. Sweeps lotteries were rejected or passed over this year by legislatures of Connecticut, Vermont, Maine, and New York -- also West Virginia. The idea is being discussed in New Jersey. Former New York Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon estimated a lottery in his state would provide a minimum of $250 million a year for schools.

ANYWAY, the inappropriately named town of Salem is alive with banners and red-white-and blue bunting for Saturday's second annual New Hampshire Sweepstakes, hoping for a better harvest than last year's from gambling tourists. To beef up interest, the state has doubled the lottery's initial $100,000 contribution to the purse for the race, and the track has added $50,000. With nominating, entry, and starting fees, the purse could approach $275,000. All this would please immensely the ghost of the man who built Rockingham Park, John W. "Bet-a-Million" Gates.

Supplies of frozen concentrated orange juice this year are over 60 percent larger than last.

NEW YORK (AP) — It used to be that our life was our own. Not any more.

It used to be that we governed our own values, associates and schedules, that nobody minded if we drove an old car, that we could throw the garbage down the incinerator whenever the pail was full.

But the pressure is on, since we moved to a Long Island suburb after 15 years as Manhattan apartment dwellers. Suburbia has clamped on its shackles.

It used to be that status symbols didn't count, that variety surrounded us, in people, restaurants, shops, movies, that we could step across the street to the store whenever we needed a bottle of milk or anything else.

Now Main Street is a mile away -- and variety is farther.

It used to be that we chose a church parish where we were needed rather than where we were situated, that I could leave for work or start for home to suit my own shift, that I got to see my kids before bedtime.

Ah, it used to be.

But we have stepped into the commuter's bog. I'm vassal to the 8:06 by morning, to another hour-plus trip at night, and to undreamt-of risks to the pocketbook.

"Daddy, when are we going to get a boat?"

Port Washington, Long Island, may be beautiful and restful, with its tree-lined streets, clipped lawns, beaches and bird songs, but I really haven't seen it yet by full day — and the birds are at roost before I get home.

Existence is ruled by timetables, system and community concern.

The anonymity of numbers is gone here. The disinterested metropolis, like the western Oklahoma farm where I grew up, lets you be. The small town or suburb expects you to match, to fit the pattern.

The garbage truck comes on Tuesday and Thursday dawn. There's no nearby self-service laundry; we'll need to buy a machine. Our boy broke the steel stopper in the bathtub, and we've got no landlord to call to get it fixed.

The mortgage payments are due the 15th of each month, along with interest and taxes, plus the utility bills which used to be covered in the rent; the grass to cut, a new family doctor to find, the door latch to adjust; and, always a train to catch.

"There's a wonderful country club," a helpful woman tells us. Membership only $300 a year. Or was it $350. Beach rights $90. At a certain dizzing point, the figures blur. "Your daughter might like to take horseback riding."

For about a year, there's been a hubcap missing from our 1953 sedan, and nobody cared. But this week I hunted up a replacement. Maybe, too, I can scrub some of the rust off the bumpers.

After all, out here you get a sharper perspective on the important things.

The family loves it.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

A Star Is Born. To Stir Action on Labor Front.

Washington, D. C.: -- A star was born for the headlines aboard an Air Force Jetstar the other day.

He won't be a one-story man. He will stay in the news, because he is lorwith Wilbur (Abe) Abel, the steelworkers' new chief who is one of the toughest men with whom Lyndon Baines Johnson ever bargained.

The new star, for whom the President dispatched a special plane may appear deaconish and look like he lacks luster. But as president of the United Steelworkers' union he's here to stay as the most militant of labor men, even in a milieu which includes Walter Reuther.

Only a handful of us throughout the land expected Abel to stand up against the President's pressure and references to the fighting in Viet Nam. The leader of the men of steel has been up against such pressure before, though few in the nation are aware of it. That was during another war, a bigger war, in the years of a President much in the image of Mr. Johnson.

That moment positively is worth recording for the young people who were then closer to baby formulas than basic geometry and for the older folks who have lost it in the rush of grim history.

It came Christmas Eve, 1943, at the hardest hours of a big war. Steel union chief Philip Murray, the man who took Abel from the ranks, was jousting with Franklin D. Roosevelt and the steel industry, just as "Abe" did this past month. The steel struggle was over wages. The industry stood pat. Mr. Roosevelt, beloved by labor, did not believe the men would walk out.

But they did. The late Phil Murray, who also had a clergyman's mien, gave the signal. On Dec. 25, 1943, over 140,000 steelworkers walked off their jobs in the gut of the industrial and defense areas. Hundreds of plants went quiet on a line from Chicago to Pittsburgh -- across 10 states in all.

Franklin Roosevelt, the industry and the nation were up against one of the two men who have ever defied a President in modern times -- the other being the miners' John Lewis.

For three days the country waited. Then FDR telegraphed Murray. Go back, said the President and we'll guarantee that all wage gains will be retroactive. On Dec. 28, the men trooped back to the mills.

At Phil Murray's side was a 35-year-old ex-steel mill hand. A few months earlier Murray had made him director of the union's District 27, the Canton, Ohio area. That was "Abe." He, too, called out many of his men.

So today at 57, Abe is new to the big headlines and to most of the public. But not to those of us who've Boswell-ed the labor wars.

Last Sunday night (Aug. 29) "Abe" believed he had a position to maintain. He was set to hold the line, just as his beloved mentor had during a big war. True, the land now is in a little war. But Abel's position called for the yielding by the industry of still another nickle an hour for each of the 450,000 men of the mills.

That's what stood between the union and the industry big ten. To the uninitiated, this may seem trivial. But a nickle an hour is big stakes on the steel front. Based on the "more average" year, 1964, the nickle meant an additional $55 million the first year, of the proposed contract, $110 million the second and $165 million the third -- or about $350 million more than the steelmakers believed they could pay without some price increases.

President Johnson had done his homework. He knew that only he, in the august office of the presidency, could crack that deadlock -- if anyone could.

So he flew in the antagonists. Over the years men who similarly have been summoned to the White House have told me they get an awesome feeling of irresistable force. As they enter, they prepare to yield and hope they can salvage some of their position.

But it was not so with "Abe." He has watched his own leaders go this route before. The difference, this time, was his name in the headlines. Not John L.'s, not Phil Murray's. Except to a few, their names now are forgotten. "Abe" knows it's a passing show, and each decade brings a new star. He is a traditionalist. And his tradition calls for playing it as tough for his men as he can. And he has.

When all the furor is over, and contracts are polished, lorwith Wilbur Abel will continue to play it that way -- on the political as well as the industrial front.

AN OLD TABOO IS ENDED

The law is supposedly a reflection of society. Particular laws, however, may often be better likened to an afterimage --a lingering reflection of the beliefs of society as they were at some previous time.

The Connecticut prohibition against birth control, which has just been struck down by the Supreme Court, was supported by a majority of the population when it was passed in the last centruy. The majority has long since changed its thinking and its practices.

What was once considered evil is now considered a positive good by many. What was once looked upon as a public concern and lumped in with the obscenity statutes is now established as a private matter.

But not entirley private. The question of the morality or immorality of "artificial" birth control is being overshadowed by problems that have burgeoned forth only in our time --overpopulation, unemployment, crime, poverty, and the mounting erosion of the public good in spiritual and financial terms that all of these involve.

By affirming the right of private parties to seek and use birth control information and devices, the court has implied the right of public or quasi-public agencies to disseminate the same.

We mass-produce almost everything in this country--except character

It used to be that when you wanted something, you worked to earn it. Now you stage a riot to get it given to you at someone else's expense.

If your father or grandfather lost his job, he took whatever work he could get, and he went (probably walked miles) to where there was work--any honest work--being done. Now hordes of relief "clients" refuse a job unless it is to their liking, and they demand the job be brought to them in their community.

This nation was built by immigrants (beginning in the 1600's and earlier) who struggled here for opportunity, and would have scorned the false idea of "something for nothing". Now it seems to be an almost universal (and all-too-often the only) ambition.

It used to take a lifetime of gruelling work and scrimping for a family or a country to earn a little surplus, a taste of security. Now mobs of stupid "students" and whole "emerging nations" demand they be given it, out of your earnings and with no effort on their part.

"Minority groups" all over the earth seem to think the world owes them everything they want. So vicious destructiveness makes necessary higher taxes to pay for more police to protect decent citizens; higher taxes for playgrounds and parks which hoodlums promptly make unsafe; higher taxes for schooling for gangs who don't seem to want or are unable to be educated. The minority groups whose rights no one seems to consider are the taxpayers and decent citizens--who may have been pampering evil too long.

NATIONAL PRIDE LEADS TO LOYALTY

The reams of startling publicity given to the confused or malevolent agitators who object to our defending South Viet Nam against communist aggression could easily cause us to lose sight of the devotion and loyalty of the great majority of American young people, especially on the fighting front. We need to pay much more attention to how the best of our young men who are asked to risk their lives really feel about it.

American boys have repeatedly written home from Viet Nam making it crystal clear to their families and friends, and in some cases through letters to newspapers, that they are still proud to fight for America and in defense against brutal, naked aggression in a foreign land allied with us.

All the years of false and twisted teaching by those who scorn patriotism, all the pseudo-sophistication of those who sneer that it is no longer "fashionable" to "wave the flag", all the scorn and the scoffing have not yet eradicated this true, native patriotic feeling in those who may make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

This is the authentic voice of the America we love, not the wailing of the beatniks and the jitters of those who are terrified by any show of strength even in a good cause. Our men in Viet Nam face the reality of danger and death, not the mere shadows conjured up by the "peace" agitators at home. They know how great is the task before them, and they are proud to be given the responsibility of performing it. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Attention John J. McCone, chairman of the California commission to investigate the Los Angeles race riots:

In your effort to get to the cause of the recent race riots, may I respectfully suggest that you probe the long range effect of the finagling which switched Chavez Ravine from a low-cost housing project to the home of the Dodgers baseball team. I think you will find that 3,300 ill-housed families were kicked out of their homes on the excuse of putting up a new, modern public housing project. Instead their land was turned over to the one-time Brooklyn Dodgers, and part of the evicted families went to swell the already overcrowded area of Watts.

You will also find that someone high up in Los Angeles real estate circles presented "gifts" of $57,570 to the late city councilman Ed Davenport to switch his vote against the public housing project in favor of the Dodgers baseball team.

Mrs. Davenport, after her husband's death, informed internal revenue that the $30,000 in cash found in Davenport's safe deposit box and the $27,570 found in three checking accounts were "gifts of money" to her husband. Since you cannot give gifts of money legally to a city official, these were really bribes.

No one has ever traced where they came from, and it might help clean government to do so now.

You will find that the city of Los Angeles had already received $6 million from the federal government to clean up the Negro shacks and Mexican tenements in Chavez Ravine. Then suddenly the city council, thanks to pressure from the real estate lobby and the switch of Councilman Ed Davenport's vote, decided to junk the housing project and sign a contract instead with Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' owner, giving him parking rights, concession rights, and even half of the oil rights.

You will find also that the city of Los Angeles, required to pay $6,000,000 back to the federal government, sneaked a rider through Congress tacked on to the Federal Housing Bill whereby the $6 million was knocked down to $1,279,000. Thus all the American taxpayers contributed to the prosperity of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and to the discomfiture of the Negroes and Mexicans moved out of Chavez Ravine to the tune of $4,721,000.

Remembering the determined and able manner in which you conducted government affairs during your latest term in office in Washington, I know you will want to get to the bottom of the above situation and its long-range effect upon crowded housing conditions in other parts of Los Angeles.

SHOCKING NEGLECT AFTER BIKINI

The suffering of Commander William W. Mitchell, U. S. Navy retired, from an overdose of atomic radiation during the Bikini bomb tests reveals the shocking fact that the armed forces have failed to make continuing medical checks of the Navy personnel exposed to radiation at that time.

Commander Mitchell is now dying at his home in Norfolk, Va., broke and discouraged over the neglect he suffered since the Bikini tests in 1946. Though he was initially treated in the Naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., he has struggled through life trying to make a living by raising hamsters but without continuing medical checks.

Furthermore, the Navy has failed to keep track of other personnel engaged in "Operation Baker."

Shaw E. Grigsby, of Gainsville, Fla., a member of that operation, informs me: "I was a member of Joint Task Force One and assigned to Admiral Blandy's staff. My major responsibility was that of a radiological safety officer and most of our duties were concerned with monitoring the intensity of radioactivity in the lagoon and aboard target ships. Every man in our crew was exposed to extreme radiation at one time or another. At one time I spent six hours in the shower undergoing decontamination.

"Constant medical checks should have been made on the men who participated in the Bikini experiment. Most of us were exposed to types of radiation about which very little was known at the time. It would be an injustice to have the same thing occur from the Bikini experiment that occurred with the women who painted the fluorescent numbers on the dials of watches back in the early part of the century."

With so little known about radiation and its effects on the human body, it would seem important, even at this late date, for the medical forces of the armed services to examine everyone of the personnel engaged in the Bikini atomic test.

Drinking air pilots--A shocking FAA report, that hasn't hit the headlines, charges that over 40 per cent of private pilots killed in air accidents last year had alcohol in their systems. This came from federal aviation agency autopsies performed on 78 dead pilots out of the 193 pilots killed. One problem is that the effects of liquor are multiplied as the pilot gains altitude.

One man filibuster--Sen. Paul Fannin, Arizona, who has taken Barry Goldwater's place in Washington, is conducting a filibuster behind closed doors of the labor committee to delay action on the right-to-work repeal. Sen. Fannin keeps offering amendments prepared for him by Senate Republican Leader Dirksen. As a result, Sen. Pat McNamara of Michigan, acting chairman of the labor committee, has threatened to hold night sessions. He has also had trouble rounding up enough Democrats to make the legal quorum necessary to vote on Fannin's amendments. The most difficult have been the two Kennedy brothers, Bobby and Ted, who usually claim they're too busy to attend.

Note To Editors: Drew Pearson, who has made many trips to Greece, is one of the few Americans who are honorary citizens of Athens, and last year he was the special guest of King Constantine at the King's wedding. From this background, Pearson writes this special report on the dangerous political situation in Greece.

MILITARY TAKE-OVER IN GREECE?

Eighteen years after the Truman Doctrine was declared for the purpose of rescuing Greece and Turkey from Communism, it looks as if the entire Greek Archipelago is eroding politically to the point that its support will be lost to the United States.

The last failure of compromise political forces to form a government shows that Greece is bitterly, almost hopelessly, divided.

On one side is 25-year-old handsome young King Constantine, whose fairybook wedding to Princess Marie of Denmark was the most romantic event of Europe just one year ago.

He has failed and will continue to fail.

For the cold fact is that if elections were held in Greece today the scrawny, elderly ex-Premier who was forced out by the King would get 80 per cent of the votes.

ANTI-ROYALIST BITTERNESS

And King Constantine, despite his charm, the romance of his marriage, and his onetime friendship with Papandreou, would lose in any election. Fortunately, the Greek throne is not dependent on elections, though it is dependent in the long run on popularity. And the tide of unpopularity is running so strongly against the King that it will take a military government to safeguard the throne during the coming intermediate years.

There are signs that a military take-over is what Greece is headed for today. In the past two weeks, gangs of young fascists wearing red shirts and blue jeans, and shouting such passwords as "for the sake of Greece" and "for the hellenic ideal," have been setting fires in the streets of Athens.

They seem to have immunity from the police. Policemen actually wave cars carrying drums of gasoline through the traffic. In one case the police even refused to rescue a fire engine crew in distress from fire fighting.

One tragedy is that the United States has been given some of the blame for the present political erosion. It has been blamed by both the left and the right.

The extreme right has pointed to the fact that Andreas Papandreou, son of the ex-Prime Minister, is former head of the Economic Department at the University of California, married to an American, and until recently, when he joined the Greek Cabinet, was an American citizen.

Actually young Papandreou leaned backward against the United States to prove that he was not pro-American. But he was blamed by the right wing for being too pro-American just the same.

Simultaneously right-Wing Greek leaders spread the word that the ousting of Premier Papandreou was being dictated by U. S. Central Intelligence. This was not the case. However, the CIA has intervened so blazenly in Greek politics in the past that the story was generally believed. Hence the leftists have been bitter against the United States.

Meanwhile, two of the charges made against the Papandreou family which led to the crisis have fizzled. One was that his son Andreas was a member of a secret left-wing army organization, Aspida. Old line army officers persuaded the King that was one reason Premier Papandreou could not act as his own Minister of Defense. Of late, the charge against Andreas has been dropped.

Another charge was that the Prime Minister himself had ordered the Greek CIA -- the KYP -- to tap the telephones of political leaders. In recent testimoney, Papandreou proved that the orders came from a previous Greek administration and that he had cancelled the order.

Papandreou is a strong anti-Communist Liberal, with a record of helping to stamp out Communism when Greece was threatened with Communist Guerrillas. But internal bitterness, and attacks from the extreme right have now lined the leftists and Communists on Papandreou's side. It will be a miracle if Greece gets out of the present imbroglio without an extreme swing to the right or the left or eventually both.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE SWEEPS

The second New Hampshire Sweepstakes Race will be run at Rockingham Park on Saturday (Sept. 4).

"EVEN IF THE SWEEPSTAKES only provides $10,000," says a newspaperman who opposes the New Hampshire Sweepstakes, "This state, with its fiscal probelms, will take the $10,000."

The remark epitomizes the granite realism of Hampshiremen. Net proceeds of the annual sweepstakes race are divided among New Hampshire's local school districts--and last year even those towns whose voters had turned down the sale of sweepstakes tickets in the 1964 referendum didn't refuse the money.

The sweepstakes frankly hasn't produced as expected. Last year the lottery grossed over $5.7 million and returned $2,768,000 after expenses and taxes, all allocated to school districts. Checks ranged from $266,000 for Manchester to $135 for Windsor. The proceeds amounted to $24.15 per pupil.

The race itself last year was something of a disappointment, at least for the state tax collectors and the proprietors of Rockingham Park, the state's only thoroughbred track. An expected turnout of 65,000 fans materialized as 17,781.

This year ticket sales are lagging behind last year's. Even though the original plan of two sweeps races a year had just jettisioned, officals expected a gross sale of lottery tickets of $9 million. As of early August the prospect of a $4 million gross appeared more realistic. Sales already were a million dollars off those of 1964.

BIG DADDY

This despite a record tourist season and a longer selling season.

GOV. JOHN W. KING, New Hampshire's first Democratic governor in 40 years, on April 30, 1963 signed a bill giving the Granite State a lottery originally designed to raise $4 million a year to save New Hampshire's schools. Last year's sweeps contribution did represent a hike of more than 50 per cent in the state's support for elementary education.

But it amounted to only about 4.8 per cent of total public school operating costs. And even with the sweepstakes revenue, The Wall Street Journal observes, the state picks up only about 13 per cent of public education costs, about a third of the national average.

At the same time, there is no doubt that Hampshiremen, for whom the tourists and vacationers afford a major cash crop, have devised a method of boosting the harvest. Gov. King, now in his second term, frankly describes the sweeps money as "gravy."

The threat to all this gambling boodle is that neighboring racing states may take the play away from underpopulated New Hampshire by instituting lotteries of their own. Sweeps lotteries were rejected or passed over this year by legislatures of Connecticut, Vermont, Maine, and New York -- also West Virginia. The idea is being discussed in New Jersey. Former New York Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon estimated a lottery in his state would provide a minimum of $250 million a year for schools.

ANYWAY, the inappropriately named town of Salem is alive with banners and red-white-and blue bunting for Saturday's second annual New Hampshire Sweepstakes, hoping for a better harvest than last year's from gambling tourists. To beef up interest, the state has doubled the lottery's initial $100,000 contribution to the purse for the race, and the track has added $50,000. With nominating, entry, and starting fees, the purse could approach $275,000. All this would please immensely the ghost of the man who built Rockingham Park, John W. "Bet-a-Million" Gates.

NEW YORK (AP) — It used to be that our life was our own. Not any more.

It used to be that we governed our own values, associates and schedules, that nobody minded if we drove an old car, that we could throw the garbage down the incinerator whenever the pail was full.

But the pressure is on, since we moved to a Long Island suburb after 15 years as Manhattan apartment dwellers. Suburbia has clamped on its shackles.

It used to be that status symbols didn't count, that variety surrounded us, in people, restaurants, shops, movies, that we could step across the street to the store whenever we needed a bottle of milk or anything else.

Now Main Street is a mile away -- and variety is farther.

It used to be that we chose a church parish where we were needed rather than where we were situated, that I could leave for work or start for home to suit my own shift, that I got to see my kids before bedtime.

Ah, it used to be.

But we have stepped into the commuter's bog. I'm vassal to the 8:06 by morning, to another hour-plus trip at night, and to undreamt-of risks to the pocketbook.

"Daddy, when are we going to get a boat?"

Port Washington, Long Island, may be beautiful and restful, with its tree-lined streets, clipped lawns, beaches and bird songs, but I really haven't seen it yet by full day — and the birds are at roost before I get home.

Existence is ruled by timetables, system and community concern.

The anonymity of numbers is gone here. The disinterested metropolis, like the western Oklahoma farm where I grew up, lets you be. The small town or suburb expects you to match, to fit the pattern.

The garbage truck comes on Tuesday and Thursday dawn. There's no nearby self-service laundry; we'll need to buy a machine. Our boy broke the steel stopper in the bathtub, and we've got no landlord to call to get it fixed.

The mortgage payments are due the 15th of each month, along with interest and taxes, plus the utility bills which used to be covered in the rent; the grass to cut, a new family doctor to find, the door latch to adjust; and, always a train to catch.

"There's a wonderful country club," a helpful woman tells us. Membership only $300 a year. Or was it $350. Beach rights $90. At a certain dizzing point, the figures blur. "Your daughter might like to take horseback riding."

For about a year, there's been a hubcap missing from our 1953 sedan, and nobody cared. But this week I hunted up a replacement. Maybe, too, I can scrub some of the rust off the bumpers.

After all, out here you get a sharper perspective on the important things.

The family loves it.

AN OLD TABOO IS ENDED

The law is supposedly a reflection of society. Particular laws, however, may often be better likened to an afterimage --a lingering reflection of the beliefs of society as they were at some previous time.

The Connecticut prohibition against birth control, which has just been struck down by the Supreme Court, was supported by a majority of the population when it was passed in the last centruy. The majority has long since changed its thinking and its practices.

What was once considered evil is now considered a positive good by many. What was once looked upon as a public concern and lumped in with the obscenity statutes is now established as a private matter.

But not entirley private. The question of the morality or immorality of "artificial" birth control is being overshadowed by problems that have burgeoned forth only in our time --overpopulation, unemployment, crime, poverty, and the mounting erosion of the public good in spiritual and financial terms that all of these involve.

By affirming the right of private parties to seek and use birth control information and devices, the court has implied the right of public or quasi-public agencies to disseminate the same.

It used to be that when you wanted something, you worked to earn it. Now you stage a riot to get it given to you at someone else's expense.

If your father or grandfather lost his job, he took whatever work he could get, and he went (probably walked miles) to where there was work--any honest work--being done. Now hordes of relief "clients" refuse a job unless it is to their liking, and they demand the job be brought to them in their community.

This nation was built by immigrants (beginning in the 1600's and earlier) who struggled here for opportunity, and would have scorned the false idea of "something for nothing". Now it seems to be an almost universal (and all-too-often the only) ambition.

It used to take a lifetime of gruelling work and scrimping for a family or a country to earn a little surplus, a taste of security. Now mobs of stupid "students" and whole "emerging nations" demand they be given it, out of your earnings and with no effort on their part.

"Minority groups" all over the earth seem to think the world owes them everything they want. So vicious destructiveness makes necessary higher taxes to pay for more police to protect decent citizens; higher taxes for playgrounds and parks which hoodlums promptly make unsafe; higher taxes for schooling for gangs who don't seem to want or are unable to be educated. The minority groups whose rights no one seems to consider are the taxpayers and decent citizens--who may have been pampering evil too long.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

A Star Is Born. To Stir Action on Labor Front.

Washington, D. C.: -- A star was born for the headlines aboard an Air Force Jetstar the other day.

He won't be a one-story man. He will stay in the news, because he is lorwith Wilbur (Abe) Abel, the steelworkers' new chief who is one of the toughest men with whom Lyndon Baines Johnson ever bargained.

The new star, for whom the President dispatched a special plane may appear deaconish and look like he lacks luster. But as president of the United Steelworkers' union he's here to stay as the most militant of labor men, even in a milieu which includes Walter Reuther.

Only a handful of us throughout the land expected Abel to stand up against the President's pressure and references to the fighting in Viet Nam. The leader of the men of steel has been up against such pressure before, though few in the nation are aware of it. That was during another war, a bigger war, in the years of a President much in the image of Mr. Johnson.

That moment positively is worth recording for the young people who were then closer to baby formulas than basic geometry and for the older folks who have lost it in the rush of grim history.

It came Christmas Eve, 1943, at the hardest hours of a big war. Steel union chief Philip Murray, the man who took Abel from the ranks, was jousting with Franklin D. Roosevelt and the steel industry, just as "Abe" did this past month. The steel struggle was over wages. The industry stood pat. Mr. Roosevelt, beloved by labor, did not believe the men would walk out.

But they did. The late Phil Murray, who also had a clergyman's mien, gave the signal. On Dec. 25, 1943, over 140,000 steelworkers walked off their jobs in the gut of the industrial and defense areas. Hundreds of plants went quiet on a line from Chicago to Pittsburgh -- across 10 states in all.

Franklin Roosevelt, the industry and the nation were up against one of the two men who have ever defied a President in modern times -- the other being the miners' John Lewis.

For three days the country waited. Then FDR telegraphed Murray. Go back, said the President and we'll guarantee that all wage gains will be retroactive. On Dec. 28, the men trooped back to the mills.

At Phil Murray's side was a 35-year-old ex-steel mill hand. A few months earlier Murray had made him director of the union's District 27, the Canton, Ohio area. That was "Abe." He, too, called out many of his men.

So today at 57, Abe is new to the big headlines and to most of the public. But not to those of us who've Boswell-ed the labor wars.

Last Sunday night (Aug. 29) "Abe" believed he had a position to maintain. He was set to hold the line, just as his beloved mentor had during a big war. True, the land now is in a little war. But Abel's position called for the yielding by the industry of still another nickle an hour for each of the 450,000 men of the mills.

That's what stood between the union and the industry big ten. To the uninitiated, this may seem trivial. But a nickle an hour is big stakes on the steel front. Based on the "more average" year, 1964, the nickle meant an additional $55 million the first year, of the proposed contract, $110 million the second and $165 million the third -- or about $350 million more than the steelmakers believed they could pay without some price increases.

President Johnson had done his homework. He knew that only he, in the august office of the presidency, could crack that deadlock -- if anyone could.

So he flew in the antagonists. Over the years men who similarly have been summoned to the White House have told me they get an awesome feeling of irresistable force. As they enter, they prepare to yield and hope they can salvage some of their position.

But it was not so with "Abe." He has watched his own leaders go this route before. The difference, this time, was his name in the headlines. Not John L.'s, not Phil Murray's. Except to a few, their names now are forgotten. "Abe" knows it's a passing show, and each decade brings a new star. He is a traditionalist. And his tradition calls for playing it as tough for his men as he can. And he has.

When all the furor is over, and contracts are polished, lorwith Wilbur Abel will continue to play it that way -- on the political as well as the industrial front.

H. L. Hunt Says

NATIONAL PRIDE LEADS TO LOYALTY

The reams of startling publicity given to the confused or malevolent agitators who object to our defending South Viet Nam against communist aggression could easily cause us to lose sight of the devotion and loyalty of the great majority of American young people, especially on the fighting front. We need to pay much more attention to how the best of our young men who are asked to risk their lives really feel about it.

American boys have repeatedly written home from Viet Nam making it crystal clear to their families and friends, and in some cases through letters to newspapers, that they are still proud to fight for America and in defense against brutal, naked aggression in a foreign land allied with us.

All the years of false and twisted teaching by those who scorn patriotism, all the pseudo-sophistication of those who sneer that it is no longer "fashionable" to "wave the flag", all the scorn and the scoffing have not yet eradicated this true, native patriotic feeling in those who may make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

This is the authentic voice of the America we love, not the wailing of the beatniks and the jitters of those who are terrified by any show of strength even in a good cause. Our men in Viet Nam face the reality of danger and death, not the mere shadows conjured up by the "peace" agitators at home. They know how great is the task before them, and they are proud to be given the responsibility of performing it. HLH

By Drew Pearson

In your effort to get to the cause of the recent race riots, may I respectfully suggest that you probe the long range effect of the finagling which switched Chavez Ravine from a low-cost housing project to the home of the Dodgers baseball team. I think you will find that 3,300 ill-housed families were kicked out of their homes on the excuse of putting up a new, modern public housing project. Instead their land was turned over to the one-time Brooklyn Dodgers, and part of the evicted families went to swell the already overcrowded area of Watts.

You will also find that someone high up in Los Angeles real estate circles presented "gifts" of $57,570 to the late city councilman Ed Davenport to switch his vote against the public housing project in favor of the Dodgers baseball team.

Mrs. Davenport, after her husband's death, informed internal revenue that the $30,000 in cash found in Davenport's safe deposit box and the $27,570 found in three checking accounts were "gifts of money" to her husband. Since you cannot give gifts of money legally to a city official, these were really bribes.

No one has ever traced where they came from, and it might help clean government to do so now.

You will find that the city of Los Angeles had already received $6 million from the federal government to clean up the Negro shacks and Mexican tenements in Chavez Ravine. Then suddenly the city council, thanks to pressure from the real estate lobby and the switch of Councilman Ed Davenport's vote, decided to junk the housing project and sign a contract instead with Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' owner, giving him parking rights, concession rights, and even half of the oil rights.

You will find also that the city of Los Angeles, required to pay $6,000,000 back to the federal government, sneaked a rider through Congress tacked on to the Federal Housing Bill whereby the $6 million was knocked down to $1,279,000. Thus all the American taxpayers contributed to the prosperity of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and to the discomfiture of the Negroes and Mexicans moved out of Chavez Ravine to the tune of $4,721,000.

Remembering the determined and able manner in which you conducted government affairs during your latest term in office in Washington, I know you will want to get to the bottom of the above situation and its long-range effect upon crowded housing conditions in other parts of Los Angeles.

SHOCKING NEGLECT AFTER BIKINI

The suffering of Commander William W. Mitchell, U. S. Navy retired, from an overdose of atomic radiation during the Bikini bomb tests reveals the shocking fact that the armed forces have failed to make continuing medical checks of the Navy personnel exposed to radiation at that time.

Commander Mitchell is now dying at his home in Norfolk, Va., broke and discouraged over the neglect he suffered since the Bikini tests in 1946. Though he was initially treated in the Naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., he has struggled through life trying to make a living by raising hamsters but without continuing medical checks.

Furthermore, the Navy has failed to keep track of other personnel engaged in "Operation Baker."

Shaw E. Grigsby, of Gainsville, Fla., a member of that operation, informs me: "I was a member of Joint Task Force One and assigned to Admiral Blandy's staff. My major responsibility was that of a radiological safety officer and most of our duties were concerned with monitoring the intensity of radioactivity in the lagoon and aboard target ships. Every man in our crew was exposed to extreme radiation at one time or another. At one time I spent six hours in the shower undergoing decontamination.

"Constant medical checks should have been made on the men who participated in the Bikini experiment. Most of us were exposed to types of radiation about which very little was known at the time. It would be an injustice to have the same thing occur from the Bikini experiment that occurred with the women who painted the fluorescent numbers on the dials of watches back in the early part of the century."

With so little known about radiation and its effects on the human body, it would seem important, even at this late date, for the medical forces of the armed services to examine everyone of the personnel engaged in the Bikini atomic test.

Drinking air pilots--A shocking FAA report, that hasn't hit the headlines, charges that over 40 per cent of private pilots killed in air accidents last year had alcohol in their systems. This came from federal aviation agency autopsies performed on 78 dead pilots out of the 193 pilots killed. One problem is that the effects of liquor are multiplied as the pilot gains altitude.

One man filibuster--Sen. Paul Fannin, Arizona, who has taken Barry Goldwater's place in Washington, is conducting a filibuster behind closed doors of the labor committee to delay action on the right-to-work repeal. Sen. Fannin keeps offering amendments prepared for him by Senate Republican Leader Dirksen. As a result, Sen. Pat McNamara of Michigan, acting chairman of the labor committee, has threatened to hold night sessions. He has also had trouble rounding up enough Democrats to make the legal quorum necessary to vote on Fannin's amendments. The most difficult have been the two Kennedy brothers, Bobby and Ted, who usually claim they're too busy to attend.

Note To Editors: Drew Pearson, who has made many trips to Greece, is one of the few Americans who are honorary citizens of Athens, and last year he was the special guest of King Constantine at the King's wedding. From this background, Pearson writes this special report on the dangerous political situation in Greece.

MILITARY TAKE-OVER IN GREECE?

Eighteen years after the Truman Doctrine was declared for the purpose of rescuing Greece and Turkey from Communism, it looks as if the entire Greek Archipelago is eroding politically to the point that its support will be lost to the United States.

The last failure of compromise political forces to form a government shows that Greece is bitterly, almost hopelessly, divided.

On one side is 25-year-old handsome young King Constantine, whose fairybook wedding to Princess Marie of Denmark was the most romantic event of Europe just one year ago.

He has failed and will continue to fail.

For the cold fact is that if elections were held in Greece today the scrawny, elderly ex-Premier who was forced out by the King would get 80 per cent of the votes.

ANTI-ROYALIST BITTERNESS

And King Constantine, despite his charm, the romance of his marriage, and his onetime friendship with Papandreou, would lose in any election. Fortunately, the Greek throne is not dependent on elections, though it is dependent in the long run on popularity. And the tide of unpopularity is running so strongly against the King that it will take a military government to safeguard the throne during the coming intermediate years.

There are signs that a military take-over is what Greece is headed for today. In the past two weeks, gangs of young fascists wearing red shirts and blue jeans, and shouting such passwords as "for the sake of Greece" and "for the hellenic ideal," have been setting fires in the streets of Athens.

They seem to have immunity from the police. Policemen actually wave cars carrying drums of gasoline through the traffic. In one case the police even refused to rescue a fire engine crew in distress from fire fighting.

One tragedy is that the United States has been given some of the blame for the present political erosion. It has been blamed by both the left and the right.

The extreme right has pointed to the fact that Andreas Papandreou, son of the ex-Prime Minister, is former head of the Economic Department at the University of California, married to an American, and until recently, when he joined the Greek Cabinet, was an American citizen.

Actually young Papandreou leaned backward against the United States to prove that he was not pro-American. But he was blamed by the right wing for being too pro-American just the same.

Simultaneously right-Wing Greek leaders spread the word that the ousting of Premier Papandreou was being dictated by U. S. Central Intelligence. This was not the case. However, the CIA has intervened so blazenly in Greek politics in the past that the story was generally believed. Hence the leftists have been bitter against the United States.

Meanwhile, two of the charges made against the Papandreou family which led to the crisis have fizzled. One was that his son Andreas was a member of a secret left-wing army organization, Aspida. Old line army officers persuaded the King that was one reason Premier Papandreou could not act as his own Minister of Defense. Of late, the charge against Andreas has been dropped.

Another charge was that the Prime Minister himself had ordered the Greek CIA -- the KYP -- to tap the telephones of political leaders. In recent testimoney, Papandreou proved that the orders came from a previous Greek administration and that he had cancelled the order.

Papandreou is a strong anti-Communist Liberal, with a record of helping to stamp out Communism when Greece was threatened with Communist Guerrillas. But internal bitterness, and attacks from the extreme right have now lined the leftists and Communists on Papandreou's side. It will be a miracle if Greece gets out of the present imbroglio without an extreme swing to the right or the left or eventually both.

The Modern Christian

What do people look for in a Christian? What do people expect from a Christian?

People look for understanding and sincerity--two deeply human characteristics. People search for others who can truly be a part of their lives; persons who can reach into their daily toil, struggle, and suffering. What they desire is some kind of incarnation.

People are often confused, afraid and lonely. The Christian must be prepared to meet these people, to search them out, and to love them.

When we commit ourselves to loving others, we commit ourselves to a very dangerous business. It means that we have to have faith in people, we have to trust people; we have to hope, because faith and hope are linked with love

Others can hurt us, they can disappoint us; and so people say you really can't get too close to them. Is it the answer then to withdraw from them, and to find some impersonal way of dealing with them?

If you are truly going to love others, you have to take chances. You have to let something of yourself go out to them.

Real love only comes out of a real person, and that is why; if understanding is first, sincerity is second. If we are going to be real Christians, we can only achieve it by being real persons ourselves.

Are we to be like the man in the parable of the talents--to hand back the unused talent, losing it? We were meant to love the world.

We were meant to give of ourselves, even at the tremendous risk of losing ourselves.

All the gifts of the world are as nothing if a man does not have love.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wayne Boone

Miss Carolyn Louise Underwood Is Bride Of Jimmy Wayne Boone In Dexter Wedding

DEXTER -- The sanctuary of the First Methodist Church was the setting Sunday afternoon, August 15, of the wedding of Miss Carolyn Louise Underwood and Jimmy Wayne Boone. The double ring vows were performed by Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright at 2 p.m. before the altar which was graced with a large white urn of white and blue Killian daisies flanked with greenery arrangements. The prie dieu was used in the altar setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Underwood of Bloomfield and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman F. Boone, Dexter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her streetlength white lace dress. The dress was designed with long lace sleeves, sheath skirt, with the bodice being accented with a chelsea collar, satin buttons and a bow. Her tiara headpiece secured the short veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and lily of the valley centered by the detachable white orchid.

Maid of honor was Miss Deloris Cortez. She was attired in a blue two piece suit complimented with a white pillbox hat and short veil. Her nosegay was composed of blue and white carnations tied with blue streamers.

The bridegroom chose his brother, David, as his best man. Serving as ushers were Joe Hill and Kenny Carney. The men in the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a tan two piece suit with blackaccessories and had a corsage of champagne carnations. Mrs. Boone chose a two piece beige dress with black accessories and an aqua carnation corsage.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was graced with a white floor-length satin cloth over laid with lace and blue net. The centerpiece was an arrangement of blue daisies and white carnations in a silvervase flanked with blue tapers in silver candleholders, the silver punch bowl and other silver service. Assisting with the serving of the wedding cake and punch were Mrs. Mike Bortle, Miss Linda Smith and Miss Carol Ann Wiss of Sikeston. Miss Phyllis Evans attended the guest book.

The couple left on a short wedding trip with the new bride choosing as her going away ensemble a pink whip cream two piece suit and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Dexter in March when the bride-groom completes his tour of duty with the United States Navy. The bride is presently attending Beauty School at Cape Girardeau.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bartlett, Mrs. John Bartlett, Mrs. Clarence Pool and sons, Mrs. Everett Wiss and children, Miss Linda Smith, Bart Stevens of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Hunt of Corning, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. David Robins of Florida.

A rehearsal dinner was held Saturday evening at the Hickory House Restaurant.

A shower was given the bride August 10 at the Amvet Building in Bloomfield. Hostesses were Judy Pulley and Deloris Cortez.

Mulcahy- Taylor Final Plans For Wedding Announced

Miss Lana Kay Mulcahy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Mulcahy, and Robert Eugene Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Taylor, have completed their wedding plans.

The couple will exchange vows at eight-thirty in the evening Saturday, September fourth, at First Baptist Church. The Reverend James W. Hackney will officiate.

Friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend the ceremony and the reception that will follow in the church dining hall.

The Modern Christian

People look for understanding and sincerity--two deeply human characteristics. People search for others who can truly be a part of their lives; persons who can reach into their daily toil, struggle, and suffering. What they desire is some kind of incarnation.

People are often confused, afraid and lonely. The Christian must be prepared to meet these people, to search them out, and to love them.

When we commit ourselves to loving others, we commit ourselves to a very dangerous business. It means that we have to have faith in people, we have to trust people; we have to hope, because faith and hope are linked with love

Others can hurt us, they can disappoint us; and so people say you really can't get too close to them. Is it the answer then to withdraw from them, and to find some impersonal way of dealing with them?

If you are truly going to love others, you have to take chances. You have to let something of yourself go out to them.

Real love only comes out of a real person, and that is why; if understanding is first, sincerity is second. If we are going to be real Christians, we can only achieve it by being real persons ourselves.

Are we to be like the man in the parable of the talents--to hand back the unused talent, losing it? We were meant to love the world.

We were meant to give of ourselves, even at the tremendous risk of losing ourselves.

All the gifts of the world are as nothing if a man does not have love.

Dodgers Regain First Place In NL Reshuffling

Marichal Loses To Phils After Nine-Day 'Vacation'

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Pres Sports Writer

A Dominican. A Cuban. And Frenchy.

Juan Marichal, Mike de la Hoz and Jim Lefebvre — the headliners Thursday as the National League pennant race got another day older and remained just as deep in confusion with the three top teams going through another 1-2-3 shuffle.

The main focus was at Philadelphia, where Marichal made his first start for San Francisco since his suspension and was both booed and belted as he dropped a 4-3 decision to the Phillies before the Giants came back to take the nightcap of the doubleheader 5-2.

De la Hoz got the key blow for Milwaukee, lofting a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning that drove in Eddie Mathews with the winning run as the Braves edged Cincinnati 4-3 and dropped the Reds from first to third place.

Lefebvre supplied the big bat for Los Angeles, driving in four runs with two singles and a double as the Dodgers whipped Pittsburgh 7-1, ended a three-game losing streak and regained the top spot.

The Dodgers now are one game in front of the Giants, while the Reds are one game off the pace and one percentage point behind San Francisco. The fourth-place Braves are two behind and the fifth-place Pirates 3½ out.

While the leaders were scrambling, Ernie Banks hit the 400th homer of his career in the Chicago Cubs' 5-3 victory over St. Louis and Houston downed the New York Mets 4-3.

Marichal attributed his defeat to the long layoff — "I have to work every four days to keep sharp." He surrendered seven hits in seven innings, including a homer by light-hitting Bobby Wine, and was charged with all four runs and his 10th loss against 19 victories.

The Giants broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning of the nightcap as Ken Henderson walked, reached second when Richie Allen threw wild on Frank Linzy's bunt and scored as Matty Alou swung and missed a wild pitch third strike fired by Jack Baldschun. Jack Hiatt's single and Jim Hart's sacrifice fly brought in two more runs.

The Reds had pulled into a tie in the seventh on Frank Robinson's homer off Hank Fisher, who had a no-hitter going until the fifth inning. The Braves won it in the 11th when Mathews singled, moved to third as pitcher Ted Davidson threw wild on Frank Bolling's bunt and scored when de la Hoz, batting for Fisher, hit his sacrifice fly.

Lefebvre singled in two runs in the third inning, singled home another in the fifth and drove across a fourth run with a seventh inning double. Dodger starter Claude Osteen carried a four-hit shutout into the eighth but needed Ron Perranoski's relief help to get his 12th victory against 13 losses.

Banks' homer capped a four-run third inning uprising that proved enough for the Cubs. He became only the 11th player ever to reach the 400-homer plateau.

Rusty Staub collected a homer, double and single, driving in two runs and scored a pair as the Astros defeated the Mets.

Fans Boo Marichal

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA AP -- San Francisco's Juan Marichal was booed and belted in his first start after a nine-day suspension.

He said the booing didn't bother him. He admitted the belting did.

A crowd of 30,410--the largest in memory for a weekday crowd in Philadelphia -- turned out to see Marichal's first start since he hit Los Angeles catcher John Roseboro over the head with a bat.

And they booed his every move.

The Phillies, meanwhile, took advantage of Marichal's ineffectiveness -- the giant's 19-game winner attributed it to the nine-day layoff--and whipped San Francisco 4-3 in the opener of a doubleheader. The Giants won the nightcap 5-2.

Marichal, who is being sued by Roseboro for $110,000, for the Aug. 22 fight, worked seven innings of the opener. Allowing seven hits and four runs. He said afterward that he wasn't sharp, the nine-day enforced layoff had taken a toll.

"I have to work every four days to keep sharp," said the 27-year-old right hander, who lost his 10th instead of gaining a coveted 20th victory.

The crowd booed the native of Santo Domingo from the time his name was announced as the starting pitcher for the Giants. They gave it to him each time he came to bat.

Tigers Cut Lead To 6½ For Twins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Is there anything more frustrating for a manager to watch than 16 runners left on base in a one-run ball game?

Try having one of his top sluggers strike out five times.

Sam Mele was a captive audience for both those spectacles Thursday night as his American League-leading Minnesota Twins bowed to Detroit 5-4. The setback, combined with Chicago's doubleheader sweep at Baltimore, trimmed the Twins' lead to 6½ games with the White Sox opening a three-game series in Minnesota tonight.

Bob Allison personified Minnesota's futility by striking out five times, tying a major league record.

One hit would have been enough Thursday night. Allison was one of Minnesota's chief offenders, leaving five men stranded, as the Twins repeatedly surrounded Tiger starter Joe Sparma and two successors with base runners who never made it home.

Minnesota had the tying and winning runs on base in the ninth when Terry Fox finally retired Joe Nossek on a fly ball, ending the game.

Don Wert drove in four Tiger runs with a single and a homer as the Twins failed to take advantge of four Detroit errors and eight walks from Sparma.

George Thomas, who had four hits for the Tigers, didn't think the setback would hurt Minnesota's pennant express. "I think the Twins will win the pennant." he said. "I don't think Chicago has the momentum to catch them."

Thomas would have a rough time convincing Chicago skipper Al Lopez that his White Sox are out of it. The 5-3, 9-3 sweep of the Orioles gave Lopez' club 17 victories in the last 23 starts and a clear shot if it can beat the Twins this weekend.

J. C. Martin's two-out double in the ninth inning drove in the winning runs in the opener while home runs by Pete Ward, Floyd Robinson and Ken Berry did the job in the nightcap.

Ward, who had three hits and drove in three runs in the second game, snapped out of a 1-for-34 slump. Robinson also drove in three runs.

Elsewhere in the American League, Washington edged Boston 5-4, Cleveland battered Kansas City 10-6 and New York ripped the Los Angeles Angels 8-1.

Bob Chance's pinch single in the eighth inning delivered the tying and winning runs for the Senators. Don Lock homered for Washington while Tony Conigliaro belted his 26th for the Red Sox.

Mickey Mantle drove in four runs and Whitey Ford beat Los Angeles for the ninth straight time as the Yankees romped. Mantle tapped a three-run homer in the first inning giving Ford, who pitched a four-hitter, a quick lead.

Rocky Colavito doubled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and Fred Whitfield followed with a two-run single as the Indians topped Kansas City. Cleveland jumped off to a 6-0 lead but the Athletics rallied to tie it before the Indians came back for the victory.

Haddix Retires After Braves Trade

BALTIMORE AP -- Harvey Haddix, who pitched 12 perfect innings in a 1959 game, has retired from baseball rather than be less than best for a pennant-contending club.

The veteran left-hander was dealt to the Milwaukee Braves earlier in the week by the Baltimore Orioles. But even the possibility of a World Series cut wasn't enough to keep Haddix away from retirement to his farm.

"It would have been easy for me to try and pitch for Milwaukee," Haddix said from his home in South Vienna, Ohio. "But if I lost a game or two, it might cost the pennant, and that I wouldn't like. If I thought I could help, I'd be with them."

"It wasn't a quick decision and it wasn't an easy dicision to make," said the slender southpaw who will be 40 in two weeks. "But I felt if I couldn't pitch for Baltimore, I couldn't pitch for Milwaukee. It's that simple."

Banks Blasts 400th Homer

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, who started the St. Louis Cardinals on their way to "come down of the year" honors made sure Thursday his skullduggery would not go for naught.

In the first game of the season, it was Banks who stroked a three-run homer with two out in the ninth to tie the score against the Cardinals. The game later ended deadlocked.

The Cardinals went into Thursday's game with seven victories in nine games that put them only eight, games from first place, and appeared finally on the move.

But again Banks climaxed a four-run third inning with another three-run blast—the 400th homer of his career—and sent the Cubs to a 5-3 triumph in Chicago.

It was the last meeting between the clubs and gave the Cubs their first season series from St. Louis since 1957, 10 games to eight.

The Cardinals, who won the first two games of the three-game set, battled back as Lou Brock hit a solo homer and fluke hits led to two more runs, but they never got the big hit off winner Bob Hendley and reliever Ted Abernathy.

Chiefs, Patriots Roll Out Big Guns Before AFL Season Opens

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs and Boston Patriots roll out the big guns Saturday night in their last exhibition game of the season.

The regular American Football League season gets underway next weekend, so coaches Hank Stram of the Chiefs and Mike Holovak of the Pats plan to field their starters in an effort to polish up their games.

Holovak explained the change from his usual policy of giving every player in uniform equal playing time during the training season games.

"The championship schedule starts a week from Saturday night and I want to give as many of our regulars as possible the conditioning of playing a full game before that," Holovak said.

The release of three veterans from the hospital list should bolster the Patriots' cause. The returning wounded include last year's most valuable player in the AFL, Gino Cappelletti; tight end Tony Romeo and guard Charley Long.

Kansas City welcomes back from the injury list starting quarterback Len Dawson and running back Bert Coan.

Both clubs have taken long, close looks at touted rookies, and some have earned starting berths.

Newcomers Jim Nance of Syracuse, Ellis Johnson of Southeast Louisiana and Joe Bellino of Navy are running on the first string for Boston. The Chiefs will probably rely extensively on first-year men Solomon Brannon of Morris Brown and Otis Taylor of Prairie View.

The Patriots will go all out to record their first pre-season victory in three years. Their string of pre-season losses was extended through 15 games last week. Saturday's game will be only the second time these two clubs have met in exhibition play. The last time was in 1960, when the Chiefs defeated Boston, 24-14.

Kansas City has revamped its roster since last week's victory over Buffalo. After sending Charlie Ragus to the New York Jets for Bob McAdams, both defensive linemen, the Chiefs claimed Chuck Hurston, a 6-5, 240-pound rookie from Auburn, on waivers after he was released by Buffalo. To make room for him, Bud Abell, rookie linebacker from Missouri, was placed on the injury deferred list. Hurston will join the squad today.

Also scheduled to check in at the Chief's camp today is Fred Whittingham, a 6-2, 255-pound lineman, recently dropped by the Los Angeles Rams. A three-year veteran, Whittingham will be added to the taxi squad.

Jets Have $400,000 Rookie Phone Operator-Joe Namath

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Jets' great experiment has ended its laboratory phase with no conclusive results and one frightening possibility...the Jets may have a $400,000 telephone operator on their hands.

Joe Namath, the penthouse-priced rookie quarterback, foundered again Thursday night as the Jets dropped a 31-10 decision to Buffalo's American Football League champions in the final preseason tuneup for both clubs.

With Namath unable to make connections throughout the exhibition campaign — 22 completions in 74 attempts for five games — and the Sept. 12 season opener at Houston imminent, it appears certain Coach Weeb Ewbank will nominate Mike Taliaferro, odd man in the Jets' quarterback derby, as the No. 1 signal-caller.

That would leave the telephone from the Jets bench to the pressbox strategists in Namath's care — at least for the time being.

Taliaferro and Namath each worked one half against the rugged Bills — with John ($200,000) Huarte getting a brief shot near the finish. Taliaferro completed eight of 17 tosses for 162 yards. Namath missed on 13 of 17 pitches — including 11 straight in one stretch — but fired a 35-yard strike to Don Maynard, in the final period for New York's only touchdown.

The game was the prelude to a full weekend of activity in both the American and National Leagues.

The AFL winds up its exhibition schedule Saturday night with three games — San Diego vs. Houston at Little Rock, Ark., Boston at Kansas City and Denver vs. Oakland at Sacramento, Calif.

All 14 NFL clubs are in action, with Saturday night's SRO doubleheader at Cleveland topping the card. The twin bill matches the league champion Browns against powerful Green Bay and the Detroit Lions against the New York Giants.

Minnesota and Dallas collide at Birmingham, Ala., while St. Louis is at Chicago in tonight's NFL games. Other pairings are Pittsburgh-San Francisco at Providence, R.I., Saturday afternoon, Baltimore-Washington at Norfolk, Va., Saturday night, and Philadelphia at Los Angeles Sunday.

Dodgers Regain First Place In NL Reshuffling

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Pres Sports Writer

A Dominican. A Cuban. And Frenchy.

Juan Marichal, Mike de la Hoz and Jim Lefebvre — the headliners Thursday as the National League pennant race got another day older and remained just as deep in confusion with the three top teams going through another 1-2-3 shuffle.

The main focus was at Philadelphia, where Marichal made his first start for San Francisco since his suspension and was both booed and belted as he dropped a 4-3 decision to the Phillies before the Giants came back to take the nightcap of the doubleheader 5-2.

De la Hoz got the key blow for Milwaukee, lofting a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning that drove in Eddie Mathews with the winning run as the Braves edged Cincinnati 4-3 and dropped the Reds from first to third place.

Lefebvre supplied the big bat for Los Angeles, driving in four runs with two singles and a double as the Dodgers whipped Pittsburgh 7-1, ended a three-game losing streak and regained the top spot.

The Dodgers now are one game in front of the Giants, while the Reds are one game off the pace and one percentage point behind San Francisco. The fourth-place Braves are two behind and the fifth-place Pirates 3½ out.

While the leaders were scrambling, Ernie Banks hit the 400th homer of his career in the Chicago Cubs' 5-3 victory over St. Louis and Houston downed the New York Mets 4-3.

Marichal attributed his defeat to the long layoff — "I have to work every four days to keep sharp." He surrendered seven hits in seven innings, including a homer by light-hitting Bobby Wine, and was charged with all four runs and his 10th loss against 19 victories.

The Giants broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning of the nightcap as Ken Henderson walked, reached second when Richie Allen threw wild on Frank Linzy's bunt and scored as Matty Alou swung and missed a wild pitch third strike fired by Jack Baldschun. Jack Hiatt's single and Jim Hart's sacrifice fly brought in two more runs.

The Reds had pulled into a tie in the seventh on Frank Robinson's homer off Hank Fisher, who had a no-hitter going until the fifth inning. The Braves won it in the 11th when Mathews singled, moved to third as pitcher Ted Davidson threw wild on Frank Bolling's bunt and scored when de la Hoz, batting for Fisher, hit his sacrifice fly.

Lefebvre singled in two runs in the third inning, singled home another in the fifth and drove across a fourth run with a seventh inning double. Dodger starter Claude Osteen carried a four-hit shutout into the eighth but needed Ron Perranoski's relief help to get his 12th victory against 13 losses.

Banks' homer capped a four-run third inning uprising that proved enough for the Cubs. He became only the 11th player ever to reach the 400-homer plateau.

Rusty Staub collected a homer, double and single, driving in two runs and scored a pair as the Astros defeated the Mets.

Fans Boo Marichal

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA AP -- San Francisco's Juan Marichal was booed and belted in his first start after a nine-day suspension.

He said the booing didn't bother him. He admitted the belting did.

A crowd of 30,410--the largest in memory for a weekday crowd in Philadelphia -- turned out to see Marichal's first start since he hit Los Angeles catcher John Roseboro over the head with a bat.

And they booed his every move.

The Phillies, meanwhile, took advantage of Marichal's ineffectiveness -- the giant's 19-game winner attributed it to the nine-day layoff--and whipped San Francisco 4-3 in the opener of a doubleheader. The Giants won the nightcap 5-2.

Marichal, who is being sued by Roseboro for $110,000, for the Aug. 22 fight, worked seven innings of the opener. Allowing seven hits and four runs. He said afterward that he wasn't sharp, the nine-day enforced layoff had taken a toll.

"I have to work every four days to keep sharp," said the 27-year-old right hander, who lost his 10th instead of gaining a coveted 20th victory.

The crowd booed the native of Santo Domingo from the time his name was announced as the starting pitcher for the Giants. They gave it to him each time he came to bat.

Tigers Cut Lead To 6 1/2 For Twins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Is there anything more frustrating for a manager to watch than 16 runners left on base in a one-run ball game?

Try having one of his top sluggers strike out five times.

Sam Mele was a captive audience for both those spectacles Thursday night as his American League-leading Minnesota Twins bowed to Detroit 5-4. The setback, combined with Chicago's doubleheader sweep at Baltimore, trimmed the Twins' lead to 6½ games with the White Sox opening a three-game series in Minnesota tonight.

Bob Allison personified Minnesota's futility by striking out five times, tying a major league record.

One hit would have been enough Thursday night. Allison was one of Minnesota's chief offenders, leaving five men stranded, as the Twins repeatedly surrounded Tiger starter Joe Sparma and two successors with base runners who never made it home.

Minnesota had the tying and winning runs on base in the ninth when Terry Fox finally retired Joe Nossek on a fly ball, ending the game.

Don Wert drove in four Tiger runs with a single and a homer as the Twins failed to take advantge of four Detroit errors and eight walks from Sparma.

George Thomas, who had four hits for the Tigers, didn't think the setback would hurt Minnesota's pennant express. "I think the Twins will win the pennant." he said. "I don't think Chicago has the momentum to catch them."

Thomas would have a rough time convincing Chicago skipper Al Lopez that his White Sox are out of it. The 5-3, 9-3 sweep of the Orioles gave Lopez' club 17 victories in the last 23 starts and a clear shot if it can beat the Twins this weekend.

J. C. Martin's two-out double in the ninth inning drove in the winning runs in the opener while home runs by Pete Ward, Floyd Robinson and Ken Berry did the job in the nightcap.

Ward, who had three hits and drove in three runs in the second game, snapped out of a 1-for-34 slump. Robinson also drove in three runs.

Elsewhere in the American League, Washington edged Boston 5-4, Cleveland battered Kansas City 10-6 and New York ripped the Los Angeles Angels 8-1.

Bob Chance's pinch single in the eighth inning delivered the tying and winning runs for the Senators. Don Lock homered for Washington while Tony Conigliaro belted his 26th for the Red Sox.

Mickey Mantle drove in four runs and Whitey Ford beat Los Angeles for the ninth straight time as the Yankees romped. Mantle tapped a three-run homer in the first inning giving Ford, who pitched a four-hitter, a quick lead.

Rocky Colavito doubled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and Fred Whitfield followed with a two-run single as the Indians topped Kansas City. Cleveland jumped off to a 6-0 lead but the Athletics rallied to tie it before the Indians came back for the victory.

Haddix Retires After Braves Trade

BALTIMORE AP -- Harvey Haddix, who pitched 12 perfect innings in a 1959 game, has retired from baseball rather than be less than best for a pennant-contending club.

The veteran left-hander was dealt to the Milwaukee Braves earlier in the week by the Baltimore Orioles. But even the possibility of a World Series cut wasn't enough to keep Haddix away from retirement to his farm.

"It would have been easy for me to try and pitch for Milwaukee," Haddix said from his home in South Vienna, Ohio. "But if I lost a game or two, it might cost the pennant, and that I wouldn't like. If I thought I could help, I'd be with them."

"It wasn't a quick decision and it wasn't an easy dicision to make," said the slender southpaw who will be 40 in two weeks. "But I felt if I couldn't pitch for Baltimore, I couldn't pitch for Milwaukee. It's that simple."

Banks Blasts 400th Homer

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, who started the St. Louis Cardinals on their way to "come down of the year" honors made sure Thursday his skullduggery would not go for naught.

In the first game of the season, it was Banks who stroked a three-run homer with two out in the ninth to tie the score against the Cardinals. The game later ended deadlocked.

The Cardinals went into Thursday's game with seven victories in nine games that put them only eight, games from first place, and appeared finally on the move.

But again Banks climaxed a four-run third inning with another three-run blast—the 400th homer of his career—and sent the Cubs to a 5-3 triumph in Chicago.

It was the last meeting between the clubs and gave the Cubs their first season series from St. Louis since 1957, 10 games to eight.

The Cardinals, who won the first two games of the three-game set, battled back as Lou Brock hit a solo homer and fluke hits led to two more runs, but they never got the big hit off winner Bob Hendley and reliever Ted Abernathy.

Chiefs, Patriots Roll Out Big Guns Before AFL Season Opens

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs and Boston Patriots roll out the big guns Saturday night in their last exhibition game of the season.

The regular American Football League season gets underway next weekend, so coaches Hank Stram of the Chiefs and Mike Holovak of the Pats plan to field their starters in an effort to polish up their games.

Holovak explained the change from his usual policy of giving every player in uniform equal playing time during the training season games.

"The championship schedule starts a week from Saturday night and I want to give as many of our regulars as possible the conditioning of playing a full game before that," Holovak said.

The release of three veterans from the hospital list should bolster the Patriots' cause. The returning wounded include last year's most valuable player in the AFL, Gino Cappelletti; tight end Tony Romeo and guard Charley Long.

Kansas City welcomes back from the injury list starting quarterback Len Dawson and running back Bert Coan.

Both clubs have taken long, close looks at touted rookies, and some have earned starting berths.

Newcomers Jim Nance of Syracuse, Ellis Johnson of Southeast Louisiana and Joe Bellino of Navy are running on the first string for Boston. The Chiefs will probably rely extensively on first - year men Solomon Brannon of Morris Brown and Otis Taylor of Prairie View.

The Patriots will go all out to record their first pre-season victory in three years. Their string of pre-season losses was extended through 15 games last week. Saturday's game will be only the second time these two clubs have met in exhibition play. The last time was in 1960, when the Chiefs defeated Boston, 24-14.

Kansas City has revamped its roster since last week's victory over Buffalo. After sending Charlie Ragus to the New York Jets for Bob McAdams, both defensive linemen, the Chiefs claimed Chuck Hurston, a 6-5, 240-pound rookie from Auburn, on waivers after he was released by Buffalo. To make room for him, Bud Abell, rookie linebacker from Missouri, was placed on the injury deferred list. Hurston will join the squad today.

Also scheduled to check in at the Chief's camp today is Fred Whittingham, a 6-2, 255-pound lineman, recently dropped by the Los Angeles Rams. A three-year veteran, Whittingham will be added to the taxi squad.

Jets Have $400,000 Rookie Phone Operator-Joe Namath

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Jets' great experiment has ended its laboratory phase with no conclusive results and one frightening possibility...the Jets may have a $400,000 telephone operator on their hands.

Joe Namath, the penthouse-priced rookie quarterback, foundered again Thursday night as the Jets dropped a 31-10 decision to Buffalo's American Football League champions in the final preseason tuneup for both clubs.

With Namath unable to make connections throughout the exhibition campaign —22 completions in 74 attempts for five games — and the Sept. 12 season opener at Houston imminent, it appears certain Coach Weeb Ewbank will nominate Mike Taliaferro, odd man in the Jets' quarterback derby, as the No. 1 signal-caller.

North Viet Nam Acts Confidently

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In this important anniversary week for North Viet Nam, its regime acts like a gambler reaching for the ace up his sleeve--the potential for trouble among influential Buddhists and intellectuals in South Viet Nam.

The North's propaganda hammers at this restlessness in an obvious attempt to activate and enlarge a political warfront in the South's cities, thus "attacking the enemy's rear" in support of Communist forces.

The success of the effort would depend upon the extent to which Communist agents have infiltrated and influenced the South's restive elements.

Exantly 20 years ago, Sept. 2, 1945, Ho Chi Minh appeared in Hanoi's Ba Dinh Square and proclaimed a "Democratic Republic of Viet Nam." The event heralded two decades of warfare in Indochina.

In many Western eyes at the time, "Uncle Ho" was a nationalist patriot and reformer, a fighter against the Japanese wartime occupant on and against the returning French colonial power. Today, North Vietnamese propaganda describes Ho's strategy of that time as "clever association of the experiences of the Russian October revolution and those of the Chinese revolution."

North Viet Nam's Communists call the events leading to the Sept. 2 proclamation "the August revolution." A little more than a week ago they directed propaganda appeals to their collaborators and sympathizers in the South to adopt the same tactics.

It may be just coincidence, but the past week brought a rash of demonstrations in the South similar to the one in Hue over the weekend involving 3,000 Buddhists and another at Da Nang, where the U.S. Marines have their most important base. There are also evidences of resurgent student restlessness in Saigon.

Hanoi's propaganda urges Communists and their sympathizers to exploit all possibilities, "political, military, economic and cultural."

Like Mao Tze-tung's Communist revolution in China, the Vietnamese one began in rural areas. Hanoi's spokesmen say the Viet Cong now control four-fifths of the countryside and 10 million people. Thus, they find it is time to bring the war to the cities in whatever forms possible.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

The Dissenting Lords Declared:

For that the judgments are barbarous, inhuman, and unchristian; and there is no precedent to warrant the punishments of whipping and committing to prison for life, for the crime of perjury; which yet were but part of the punishments inflicted upon him.

For that this will be an encouragement and allowance for giving the like cruel, barbarous, and illegal judgments hereafter, unless this judgment be reversed.

Because it is contrary to the declaration on the 12th of February last, which was ordered by the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons then assembled, and by their declaration engrossed in parchment, and enrolled among the records of Parliament, and recorded in chancery; whereby it doth appear, that excessive bail ought not to be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel nor unusual punishments inflicted.

As the English public and parliamentarians become genuinely more enlightened, there developed a movement to curb the barbarous nature of punishments in English law. This movement culminated in the famous provision of the Declaration of Rights of 1689 forbidding cruel and unusual punishments.

The colonists, with their own experience of barbarous methods of torture, were equally alive to the necessity of curbing such abuses in the New World. A number of State constitutions adopted around the time of the Revolution, in one manner of phraseology or another, copied the provision in the English Declaration of Rights against cruel and unusual punishments.

When the United States Constitution was submitted to the States for ratification, some of the opposition arose because of the failure of that document to forbid cruel and unusual punishments. Thus, in the Massachusetts convention, Mr. Abraham Holmes, discussing the judicial power conferred by the Constitution, and referring to the power of Congress to define and fix the punishment for crime, declared:

They are nowhere restrained from inventing the most cruel and unheard - of punishments, and annexing them to crimes, and there is no constitutional check on them, but that racks and gibbets may be amongst the most mild instruments of their discipline.

AMA WARNS OF 'DRUG HABIT'

It is becoming more and more socially acceptable to escape from tensions and anxieties through the use of barbiturates and so-called "minor tranquilizers". But, the American Medical Association warns, prolonged use of these sedatives can lead to drug-dependency.

Patients often mislead doctors about their need for or past experience with drugs, the AMA notes. They also endanger themselves by prolonged unsupervised use of barbiturates or by over-use of non-prescription remedies without thought to their cumulative effect.

The drug habit, once established, is not easy to break and, says the AMA, the barbiturate-dependent person can be compared to an opiate-dependent.

'NEW FRONTIER' IN WOMEN'S MEDICINE

At the recent American Medical Association convention, Dr. William E. Barfield of the Medical College of Georgia, reported that oral contraceptive pills have opened an "entirely new frontier" in the treatment of gynecologic problems.

Dr. Barfield's report dealt largely with menstrual disorders. By using "the pill," he found that relief was given 111 of 120 women suffering from excessive bleeding, 41 of 43 patients who experienced ovulatory pain, 66 or 75 subject to premenstrual tension, and 94 of 107 women who had painful menstruation with accompaning headache and nausea.

RABIES - DOGS NOT THE ONLY CULPRITS

While dogs are still the major carriers of rabies to infect humans, they have no exclusivity in this role. The bites of cats, monkeys, foxes, wolves, jackals, badgers and bats, among other animals, contribute to the death toll from rabies. In both East and West Germany the red fox is the principal culprit, accounting for 24,000 rabies cases -- 60 per cent of all cases in the past decade.

Prompt vaccine treatment prevents death, yet the World Health Organization still reports hundreds of deaths per year from rabies.

MEDICINE CHEST TIP

If the label on your prescription medicine is on the outside of the bottle or vial, coat it with clear nail polish or transparent tape. The coating will keep the description and dosage from smudging. And remember, you should periodically clean out the medicine chest and dispose of old prescription Drugs. They could be dangerous.

HELP YOUR DOCTOR HELP YOU

Today's tip: If your doctor believes you need certain laboratory tests or X-rays, be sure to tell him when you had your last menstrual period. This is useful information in setting appointments for the X-rays and tests.

Johnson Era Marked By Demonstrations

WASHINGTON AP -- A University of Kansas student, unhappy about President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam, slashed his own wrist and smeared blood on a campus bulletin board.

The student, Charles Hook of Glen Head, N.Y., said this rather startling action last March was "purely spontaneous and an individual gesture." But less dramatic displays of displeasure with Johnson's decisions have become quite commonplace, though apparently reflecting only minority opinion.

This has been a year for teach-ins, sit-ins and hunger strikes, all reflecting various degrees of opposition to various presidential policies.

Johnson's public reaction generally has been restrained, but his sensitivity to almost any criticism is marked and, in private, often stormy.

Publicly, Johnson insists he welcomes democratic debate and abhors blind conformity. On those occasions when he has uttered stronger statements, he usually has criticised the press which often brings him first news of dissent and, in his view, promotes conflict by publicizing his critics.

A year ago, Johnson seemed to enjoy miraculous immunity to the barbs that all presidents encounter, usually sooner than later. When harsh words were heard, they normally fell into the category of partisan campaign utterances or dealt with such side issues as the President's automobile driving and his dog-handling practices.

However, this year has seen development of an often noisy undercurrent of minority criticism embracing such major issues as Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic -- plus civil rights, American representation at the Churchill funeral, Johnson's shelving of Washington visits by the leaders of India and Pakistan, and his relations with news media.

With all this, though, the polls show Johnson's standing with American voters has remained exceptionally high on all significant questions - including Viet Nam.

Criticism began soon after Johnson was inaugurated as President in his own right. First he offended an important, if unmeasurable, portion of the populace by sending Chief Justice Earl Warren -- rather than Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey -- to represent the United States at the London funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

Since then, restraint has been his watchword. He waited nearly six hours for example, to authorize the removal from the White House of 12 young people who staged a sit-in critical of his civil rights policies. More recently, two days elapsed before opponents of the war in Viet Nam were hauled away in paddy wagons after blocking White House entrances in a sit-down demonstration.

About two months ago, Johnson put his public reaction into words in a statement that referred indirectly to teach-ins and other displays of opposition to administration policy in Viet Nam:

"How rare is the land and extraordinary the people who freely allow, and really encourage, as I have on many occasions, the citizens of our nation to discuss and to debate their nation's policies in time of danger.

"We welcome and we ask for new ideas from serious and concerned men and women, from universities and journals and public platforms all across the land. We are constantly searching for views and proposals which might strengthen and unite and help our government."

Then he added a word about what has become his greatest concern about vocal dissidents:

"Let no one ever think for a moment that national debate means national division."

Where handling of criticism is concerned, there is evidence that Johnson has grown in the presidency, despite his thin skin.

Cancel Head Start In Caruthersville

JEFFERSON CITY -- The federal government has closed a pre-school training program in Caruthersville because of discrimination between white and Negro pupils in classrooms.

Caruthersville School Superintendent W. V. Hill, who supervised Project Head Start in that area, said he "knew nothing about it and we ran our regular program." He refused further comment.

According to a telegram received here this week and on file with the State Office of Economic Opportunity, Federal funds have been stopped and the program canceled for "refusal to desegregate classes."

Philip Maher, director of the state program, said the state serves only as technical advisors in getting such projects underway and has no control over them. He said contracts were signed between the local community and the federal government.

The Caruthersville school district entered into contract with the federal government to establish a Project Head Start last April.

Superintendent Hill signed a civil rights assurance of compliance form which forbids any kind of discrimination and which is mandatory to get such projects. Records showed the program had about 165 children. About 90 were Negroes.

It was one of 451 centers in Missouri under Project Head Start, designed to give deprived children free kindergarten and free first grade school training.

The Caruthersville program received $32,563 of the state share of $2,434,000. The contract shows the program had until Sept. 20 to run but reportedly it was due to close this week as the regular school season approached.

It was learned that two different investigators from the Economic Opportunity Office in Washington were sent to the Caruthersville school and found only all Negro and all white classrooms. Local officials said the children played and ate together although they were not assiged the same classrooms.

The program was the only one that ran into any kind of civil rights trouble among a number of such programs in southeast Missouri.

North Viet Nam Acts Confidently

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In this important anniversary week for North Viet Nam, its regime acts like a gambler reaching for the ace up his sleeve--the potential for trouble among influential Buddhists and intellectuals in South Viet Nam.

The North's propaganda hammers at this restlessness in an obvious attempt to activate and enlarge a political warfront in the South's cities, thus "attacking the enemy's rear" in support of Communist forces.

The success of the effort would depend upon the extent to which Communist agents have infiltrated and influenced the South's restive elements.

Exantly 20 years ago, Sept. 2, 1945, Ho Chi Minh appeared in Hanoi's Ba Dinh Square and proclaimed a "Democratic Republic of Viet Nam." The event heralded two decades of warfare in Indochina.

In many Western eyes at the time, "Uncle Ho" was a nationalist patriot and reformer, a fighter against the Japanese wartime occupant on and against the returning French colonial power. Today, North Vietnamese propaganda describes Ho's strategy of that time as "clever association of the experiences of the Russian October revolution and those of the Chinese revolution."

North Viet Nam's Communists call the events leading to the Sept. 2 proclamation "the August revolution." A little more than a week ago they directed propaganda appeals to their collaborators and sympathizers in the South to adopt the same tactics.

It may be just coincidence, but the past week brought a rash of demonstrations in the South similar to the one in Hue over the weekend involving 3,000 Buddhists and another at Da Nang, where the U.S. Marines have their most important base. There are also evidences of resurgent student restlessness in Saigon.

Hanoi's propaganda urges Communists and their sympathizers to exploit all possibilities, "political, military, economic and cultural."

Like Mao Tze-tung's Communist revolution in China, the Vietnamese one began in rural areas. Hanoi's spokesmen say the Viet Cong now control four-fifths of the countryside and 10 million people. Thus, they find it is time to bring the war to the cities in whatever forms possible.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

The Dissenting Lords Declared:

For that the judgments are barbarous, inhuman, and unchristian; and there is no precedent to warrant the punishments of whipping and committing to prison for life, for the crime of perjury; which yet were but part of the punishments inflicted upon him.

For that this will be an encouragement and allowance for giving the like cruel, barbarous, and illegal judgments hereafter, unless this judgment be reversed.

Because it is contrary to the declaration on the 12th of February last, which was ordered by the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons then assembled, and by their declaration engrossed in parchment, and enrolled among the records of Parliament, and recorded in chancery; whereby it doth appear, that excessive bail ought not to be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel nor unusual punishments inflicted.

As the English public and parliamentarians become genuinely more enlightened, there developed a movement to curb the barbarous nature of punishments in English law. This movement culminated in the famous provision of the Declaration of Rights of 1689 forbidding cruel and unusual punishments.

The colonists, with their own experience of barbarous methods of torture, were equally alive to the necessity of curbing such abuses in the New World. A number of State constitutions adopted around the time of the Revolution, in one manner of phraseology or another, copied the provision in the English Declaration of Rights against cruel and unusual punishments.

When the United States Constitution was submitted to the States for ratification, some of the opposition arose because of the failure of that document to forbid cruel and unusual punishments. Thus, in the Massachusetts convention, Mr. Abraham Holmes, discussing the judicial power conferred by the Constitution, and referring to the power of Congress to define and fix the punishment for crime, declared:

They are nowhere restrained from inventing the most cruel and unheard - of punishments, and annexing them to crimes, and there is no constitutional check on them, but that racks and gibbets may be amongst the most mild instruments of their discipline.

Dunklin To Ballot On Oct. 5

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Thursday set Oct. 5 as the date for a special election to fill a legislative vacancy in Dunklin county.

The county formerly was represented by Charles B. James, Clarkton Democrat, who died recently. He was chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture many years.

The Oct. 5 date would be well in advance of a special legislative session the governor may call around the middle of October to work on a proposed constitutional amendment to set up a bipartisan commission to redistrict the House.

The governor indicated he would consult with House leaders this week in an effort to determine whether such a proposal would have a chance.

Candidates Helped By Old Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sen. George Murphy seems to have started something by attributing part of his 1964 success at the California polls to his good-guy image on television rerun movies.

Ronald Reagan, who may not always get the girl but is rarely the villain in vintage films still on TV, currently is a serious prospect for California's Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Simple addition suggests that if old movies seen by comparatively small audiences can help elect a candidate, a fellow whose show has a high Nielsen rating ought to be swept into office by a landslide.

Steve Allen, a star of a network show ("I've Got a Secret") in Nielsen's list of the 20 most popular programs, is reportedly thinking seriously about running for a soon-to-be vacated congressional seat.

Dan Blocker, who plays a bumbling strongman named Hoss in "Bonanza," also talks about running for public office. And apparently his interest in politics is real.

Robert Vaughn, a supersecret agent in "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." has a passion for politics second only to his love of acting. During the last campaign he worked for Pierre Salinger's election.

If popularity with the public were all that is needed to win votes, Blocker would be a shoo-in for the office of his choice. "Bonanza" is consistently rated as the nation's most popular television show.

Steve Allen's public image might work against him: He has a reputation as a keen wit and sharp satirist. Practical politicians have been leary of witty intellectuals since the second defeat of Adlai E. Stevenson.

matter of fact

Radar, the electronic device which enables man to detect and locate objects at distances and under conditions impossible to sight by the eye, means "radio detecting and ranging." It was developed independently and virtually at the same time by the United States, England, Germany and France during the 1930s. In 1942 the United States Navy coined the term radar, which then became universal.

matter of fact

Radar, the electronic device which enables man to detect and locate objects at distances and under conditions impossible to sight by the eye, means "radio detecting and ranging." It was developed independently and virtually at the same time by the United States, England, Germany and France during the 1930s. In 1942 the United States Navy coined the term radar, which then became universal.

THE PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

Friday, September 3, 1965
And I say, What shall I do Lord? (Acts 22:10)

PRAYER: Gracious Lord, grant us Thy forgiveness that so often we have said in our hearts, "I know what I will do," but have forgotten to ask, "what shall I do, Lord?" Show us Thy plan for our lives, and give us the courage to follow it; for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Q—Who was the first Jewish associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court?

A—Louis Brandeis, appointed in 1916 by President Wilson.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who will soon be 11 years old reads your column every day. I have no objections, in fact I think it is good for her because you have backed me up many times. My husband doesn't agree with me. He says Enid will discover soon enough that life can be sordid and terribly cruel. He doesn't think she should find out through your column.

Last night we talked about this again after he heard Enid discussing your column on the telephone with a girl friend. My husband said kids are exposed to so much that is undesirable and so little that is good that they are bound to become confused. He insists childhood should be just plain fun, free of anxieties and worries.

My husband is well-educated (which I am not) and I must admit he is seldom wrong. Please print this letter and your reply.--MRS. DON'T KNOW

Dear Mrs.: Your husband may be well-educated but he has a poor memory. Nobody's childhood is "just plain fun, free of anxieties and worries" -- not even your husband's.

I believe my column is fit reading for anyone who is old enough to read. If some of the material is beyond a youngster, it will have no meaning. If preteens do understand it, all the better. My advice is based on sound moral principles, and correct information -- and this can't hurt anybody.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago you wrote a wonderful column on parents who fight in front of their children. Now I wish you'd say something about parents who get drunk in front of their children.

I am a boy 15 years old who would like to take a hammer and bust every bottle of liquor in this house. My mother inherited quite a lot of money so nobody in the family works. Anyone who thinks a life of leisure is a great way to live should come to our house and they'd learn something.

By dinner time my mother and dad are both smashed. All they do is fight. My brother and sister and I eat in the kitchen with the help because we can't stand the name-calling and plate-throwing.

Liquor has robbed my mother of her looks and her health. It has robbed my father of his ambition and his dignity. It has robbed them both of the respect of their children. But it has done one thing that is good. It has helped me make a decision that some teen-agers struggle with for a long time. I'll never touch liquor as long as I live.--MADE THE SCENE

Dear M. T. S.: Your decision is a wise one. You'll never have to worry about whether or not you're in shape to drive or wrack your brain to remember what you said or did the night before. And you won't be bothered with hangovers or the shakes.

Recent figures by the experts tell us that every day approximately 1,000 Americans cross the line that divides the social drinker and the alcoholics. It's nice to know you won't be among them, son.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ZILCH: A gentleman never tells. Your fiancee is not entitled to the names and numbers of all the players. If she would break the engagement over this issue you haven't lost much.

Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BIG JIM MEANS IT. . . . . Scott City--

If you doubt that "Big Jim" Wallace, a Democrat, is serious about running for representative to Congress in the tenth district of Missouri in 1966 --you haven't had a cup of coffee with him at his hotel lately. He is not the same man who took a beating at the primary polls in 1964.

"I've had my baptism and now I'm putting this hard won knowledge to use," he said this week. "I think the jolt at the polls in the last election has made a better campaigner out of me."

Paul C. Jones, who has held this position for almost two decades, who triumped over Jim Wallace; remains the target. "I don't know whether he'll actually run again, or not, when the time comes," Wallace said. But he's running right now. He's always running. He doesn't stop. I don't blame him, because we're not stopping either."

The most frequent cause of blown fuses is overloaded circuits.
Many people have added new appliances (which is fine) without adding new circuits (not so good in some cases) to their original wiring.
It happens so gradually that most folks don't realize that their circuits are overloaded until fuses start to blow.
If your fuses are blowing see your electrical contractor right away. And you can have those extra convenience outlets that you've needed for so long put in at the same time.

PRAYER: Gracious Lord, grant us Thy forgiveness that so often we have said in our hearts, "I know what I will do," but have forgotten to ask, "what shall I do, Lord?" Show us Thy plan for our lives, and give us the courage to follow it; for Jesus' sake. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who will soon be 11 years old reads your column every day. I have no objections, in fact I think it is good for her because you have backed me up many times. My husband doesn't agree with me. He says Enid will discover soon enough that life can be sordid and terribly cruel. He doesn't think she should find out through your column.

Last night we talked about this again after he heard Enid discussing your column on the telephone with a girl friend. My husband said kids are exposed to so much that is undesirable and so little that is good that they are bound to become confused. He insists childhood should be just plain fun, free of anxieties and worries.

My husband is well-educated (which I am not) and I must admit he is seldom wrong. Please print this letter and your reply.--MRS. DON'T KNOW

Dear Mrs.: Your husband may be well-educated but he has a poor memory. Nobody's childhood is "just plain fun, free of anxieties and worries" -- not even your husband's.

I believe my column is fit reading for anyone who is old enough to read. If some of the material is beyond a youngster, it will have no meaning. If preteens do understand it, all the better. My advice is based on sound moral principles, and correct information -- and this can't hurt anybody.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago you wrote a wonderful comumn on parents who fight in front of their children. Now I wish you'd say something about parents who get drunk in front of their children.

I am a boy 15 years old who would like to take a hammer and bust every bottle of liquor in this house. My mother inherited quite a lot of money so nobody in the family works. Anyone who thinks a life of leisure is a great way to live should come to our house and they'd learn something.

By dinner time my mother and dad are both smashed. All they do is fight. My brother and sister and I eat in the kitchen with the help because we can't stand the name-calling and plate-throwing.

Liquor has robbed my mother of her looks and her health. It has robbed my father of his ambition and his dignity. It has robbed them both of the respect of their children. But it has done one thing that is good. It has helped me make a decision that some teen-agers struggle with for a long time. I'll never touch liquor as long as I live.--MADE THE SCENE

Dear M. T. S.: Your decision is a wise one. You'll never have to worry about whether or not you're in shape to drive or wrack your brain to remember what you said or did the night before. And you won't be bothered with hangovers or the shakes.

Recent figures by the experts tell us that every day approximately 1,000 Americans cross the line that divides the social drinker and the alcoholics. It's nice to know you won't be among them, son.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ZILCH: A gentleman never tells. Your fiancee is not entitled to the names and numbers of all the players. If she would break the engagement over this issue you haven't lost much.

Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BIG JIM MEANS IT. . . . . Scott City--

If you doubt that "Big Jim" Wallace, a Democrat, is serious about running for representative to Congress in the tenth district of Missouri in 1966 --you haven't had a cup of coffee with him at his hotel lately. He is not the same man who took a beating at the primary polls in 1964.

"I've had my baptism and now I'm putting this hard won knowledge to use," he said this week. "I think the jolt at the polls in the last election has made a better campaigner out of me."

Paul C. Jones, who has held this position for almost two decades, who triumped over Jim Wallace; remains the target. "I don't know whether he'll actually run again, or not, when the time comes," Wallace said. But he's running right now. He's always running. He doesn't stop. I don't blame him, because we're not stopping either."

DO YOUR FUSES BLOW THEIR TOPS?

The most frequent cause of blown fuses is overloaded circuits.
Many people have added new appliances (which is f i n e) without adding new circuits (not so good in some cases) to their original wiring.
It happens so gradually that most folks don't realize that their circuits are overloaded until fuses start to blow.
If your fuses are blowing see your electrical contractor right away. And you can have those extra convenience outlets that you've needed for so long put in at the same time.

HOW MANY feet of cotton thread are there in a t-shirt? Ask James M. Beaird. He missed by only 25 feet out of a total of 16,800. His guess of 16,775 won over Graber's stores contestants in the Middle West and won a bale of cotton. It will be Missouri grown and be sent from Portageville. He can keep it or sell it for $75 to $100. From left is Milton Bernstein, manager of Graber's store, looking over the weighing ticket; Beaird looking at a sample of t-shirt cotton, and B. B. McCaa, manager of the Sikeston Compress.

Arrest Two For Beating Elderly Man

KENNETT -- Two men wanted in connection with the beating of an elderly Clarkton man in Aug. were arrested Wednesday in Crowley, La., according to Dunklin Sheriff Raymond Scott.

Sheriff Scott said that Dunklin County Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker plans to extradite Charles Beck, 20, and John Abbott, 19, both of Clarkton.

The two men were taken into custody on a warrant issued on Aug. 30 by the Dunklin County Prosecutor, Sheriff Scott reported. Beck and Abbott are charged with felonious assault and will be returned to the Dunklin County jail as soon as possible.

Sheriff Scott explained that the warrant was issued after information was obtained through an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Bob McDonald, Trooper Joe Matthews of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, Clarkton City Marshal Jack McCarley and Gideon Chief of Police Bo Wingo.

The information was turned over to Prosecutor Baker who issued the felonious assault warrant.

The beating victim, 80-year-old James Holder of Clarkton, was reported as improving today at the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital. Holder sustained a fractured skull and loss of an eye in the incident.

Holder, who lived alone in Clarkton, was found by Emery Beck who visited the elderly man's home on business on August 26. Beck told authorities that Holder was about to come to the door of his home, but it was apparent that he had been badly beaten.

therefore a haze still lingers over the incident. But, responsible accounts of what happens indicate:

A CIA group based in Bangkok, Thailand, developed the operation without checking with State Department or other non-CIA officials.

CIA men went to Singapore and tried to buy information from intelligence officials. They are said to have been interested particularly in Red Chinese labor activities.

While Lee has claimed a CIA man was caught red-handed trying to buy information from a Singapore official, it is understood at least two American agents were seized by Singapore police. One was released immediately. The other, it is understood, was held a few months.

Washington's first concern was to get the agent out of jail, then to avert an anti-American bombshell.

Britain, whose ties with Singapore remain strong to this day, is reported to have persuaded Lee to drop his threat to make the incident public.

When Lee changed his mind four days ago, and tossed in a charge he had been offered a $3 million bribe to remain quiet, the State Department checked with the CIA and issued a denial.

Lee angrily countered this Wednesday by releasing a 1961 letter of apology from Secretary of State Dean Rusk. And the State Department acknowledged the substantial accuracy of Lee's allegation.

There has been no acknowledgement of a bribe and officials cannot recall any evidence that one was offered Lee.

While the affair began toward the end of the Eisenhower administration, it was settled at the outset of the Kennedy administration.
